Breakthrough Biofilm Concepts - Dealing with Mother Nature's Microbial Masterpieces

Anne Guignon RDH, MPH

Biofilms are complex polymicrobial communities that contribute to many chronic diseases, including periodontal disease and caries. Biofilms play a significant role in the development of chronic wounds, delayed wound healing and persistent re-infections and resist traditional antibiotic therapy. New combination therapies are emerging that treat Mother Nature's most unique microbial challenges.

Objectives

- * Formation, maturation and disruption
- * Xerostomia and biofilm ecology
- * Role in caries and periodontal disease
- * Patient risk assessment
- * Connection to other chronic diseases
- * Biofilm disruption strategies
- * Ultrasonics, brushes, irrigators and xylitol

Anne is internationally recognized for four decades of contributions to dental hygiene and dentistry. She is a practicing clinician, columnist, feature writer and Senior Consulting Editor for RDH Magazine and has authored textbook chapters on ergonomics and power driven scaling. Anne holds an adjunct faculty position at the University of Texas Dental Branch and has been honored as the 2004 Philips RDH Mentor of the Year and received the 2009 ADHA Colgate Irene Newman Award.

Teenagers - What Their Mouths are Telling You but They're Not: Practical Information on Teen Health Issues

Janette Delinger RDH, BSDH

The current and sometimes shocking health behaviors and trends in the younger generation can influence their oral and systemic health. The dental professional has an opportunity during the dental visit to identify risk behaviors and intervene with the teenager to make positive health choices.

Objectives

- * Cola/sports drink consumption
- * Eating disorders
- * Obesity
- * Substance abuse
- * High risk behaviors
- * Gender differences

Janette received her undergraduate degree from Wichita State University in 1983. She is currently attending the University of Missouri-Kansas City School of Dentistry where she is completing her Master's in Dental Hygiene Education. She has over 24 years in private practice and still works clinically part time. As a Professional Educator with Philips Sonicare, she manages a 13 state region in the Midwest and lectures on a variety of topics throughout the United States and internationally.
